Washington, formerly among epicurians for varieties of wild fowl, deliciously prepared and served by local hotels, is now strictly wild-fowl-less. The game law, passed by Congress The game law, passed by Congress last June and signed by the President in July, which prohibited market shooting of wild ducks, quail, pheasants, etc., is being brought to the attention of local hostelries with the entrance of the game season.

Officials have notified local eating places of the scope and intent of the new law with which they generally, are complying.

"The old days in which a District resident could call for his favorite wild fowl, deliciously prepared, is past," said Robert S. Downs, manager of the Washington oHtel, today, "I have only seen two wild ducks, a cou ple of pheasants, and a wild turkey in Washington this year."

G. A. Lawyer, of the Bureau of Bloogical Survey of the Department of abor, today explained the game law "The new law forbids the selling of wild fowl, much the same as game laws, passed previously, forbid the sale of venison," said Mr. Lawyer. Commercial hunters appealed to the Commercial nunters appeared to the food administration to recommend the suspension of the law until the food situation became less acute, but Mr. Hoover has ruled that conservation of wild fowl life was essential o future abundance of game.

That Box for Overseas

Every man in the American Expeditionary Forces, every Red Cross nurse abroad, and other persons serving in the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., K. of C., and similar organizations, may receive one Christmas parcel from home. It must be sent through the Red Cross, in a 3x4x9-inch carton provided by the Red Cross, and the weight must not exceed 2 pounds, 15 ounces.

The person to whom your gift is to be sent is expected to send you an official label. If you have not received it, the new regulations permit you to secure the Red Cross carton and send your gift, by declaring yourself to be the nearest relative of the person abroad. In case application is made for a duplicate label, positive identification of the applicant is absolutely necessary. No exception will be made to this rule.

The time limit for the shipment of gifts has been extended to November 30. The Red Cross Station in our store will supply you with the official carton, upon presenta-tion of the proper credentials, and attend to all the details of forwarding your gift abroad. Let us help you.

Red Cross Station, Second floor, F street.

The Last Remnant Day Before Christmas

As Is Our Custom We Will Discontinue Our Remnant Days Until After the Holiday Season, and for That Reason Tomorrow's Offerings Will Be Doubly Important.

Because we are anxious now to close out quickly the remaining odd and broken lots of merchandise throughout the various departments in order to give space to the holiday stocks, unusual reductions have been placed on them and genuine savings are possible on a large assortment of seasonable merchandise for home, as well as general needs.

Remaint Day merchandise is non-returnable; is not sent on C. O. D. or approval, nor can we accept phone or mail orders.
